North Seattle Community College is known for the breadth of its educational choices, the support it provides to its students, and the excellence of its instruction. Established in 1970, North Seattle Community College is an accredited two-year public college.

North is the starting point for many students who transfer to colleges and universities across the country. Small classes and an emphasis on learning skills and critical thinking help our students to succeed as they continue their education.

Students at North can also choose from more than 50 career training programs including its Watchmaking Institute, co-sponsored by The Rolex Company—one of only a few programs in the country affiliated with the Swiss American Watchmakers Training Alliance. Nanotechnology, accounting fraud and green real estate are also unique to NSCC. All of these programs are developed and refined in cooperation with business and industry. As a result, training matches employers’ needs and leads to jobs for graduates.

North Seattle Community College is one of 34 community and technical colleges in Washington and is part of the Seattle Community College District, which also includes Seattle Central and South Seattle Community Colleges and the Seattle Vocational Institute.
