In Their Own Words: Extra-Credit Opportunities

Throughout the quarter we will announce events, performances, and exhibits in the Seattle area that we think will shed light on our work together. We hope you will have suggestions, too!

You can earn up to three extra-credit points this quarter by attending and writing about up to three events/exhibits. These points will be added to your final averaged seminar grade. For instance, if your seminar grade is 3.2, worth 30% of your course grade, and you’ve earned all three extra-credit points, then you’ll receive a 3.5 for that 30%!

Requirements:
1. Attend the event.
2. Write a one page double-spaced summary/description of the event for readers that haven’t attended. Help them understand and experience it as you did. Use whole sentences, varied and functional sentence structures, vivid and precise vocabulary, etc. Your writing matters here.
3. Write a one page double-spaced analysis of how/why this event/exhibit relates to our shared course work. You must connect it to specific topics, questions, and texts we’ve raised and discussed. Your critical thinking and writing matters here.

If you do this above writing attentively and thoughtfully, you get the extra-credit point!

Deadline: all extra credit work is due by March 13th.
